PRICE, 5 CENTS

POINTS on Carpetings.

It has been our good fortune to note, after years of untiring study and observation, that what the general public wants today in Carpetings is something that is serviceable, attractive and not expensive in price, that counts fully as much as the looks.

We make a specialty of Boxley Carpetings, the excellence of which is well known to all who know, to be unequalled by carpets of other manufacturers.

A week previous to the recent advance in price, we received from these old and most reliable Carpet mills in the country, over one hundred rolls of wool and tapestries, and while they last we offer the greatest bargains ever heard of in Carpetings.

All Wools, 47 1-2c. Extra Super Wool Ingrains, 52 1-2c. and 57 1-2c. Best Lowells, 65c. Splendid Wool Tapestries, 49c. Heavy Tapestries, 55c. Extra Heavy Tapestry Brussels, 65c.

This is the turning point in price of Carpetings, and these prices are from 10 to 15 cents per yard less than the same Carpeting can be bought for at other stores. DON'T MISS THE OPPORTUNITY.

The Link at Last.—The Walking
Transfer Wiped Out.

An arrangement made yesterday between the Quincy and Boston and the Braintree and Weymouth electric roads, the annoying delay and transfer in getting to the terminus of the Pleasant street route, so called, at Shaws corner has been removed.

Terms were made by which the Braintree and Weymouth company will take the line of the Quincy and Boston from Madison street to Shaws corner, and it is expected the connection will be made in a few days and the circuit of the town completed.

This is a right thing which belongs to the people, and which is well deserving of electric in many cases been exceedingly annoying. It has been clearly demonstrated that the better the facilities, the longer will be the travel. Both roads have a running time of 10 minutes, of which 8 minutes, and another 2 will be required to make the transfer will test the capacity of all our roads to handle the traffic. The people will ride.

Be Sure You Are Registered.

The culminating point in the political campaign of 1895 is approaching.

The folks who are the antagonists of Weymouth, as well as the whole Commonwealth, will have deposited their ballots and made the government of the state for another year.

It is the duty of every citizen to become a part of the government under which he lives and see that those who make and execute the laws governing the financial, social and moral condition of affairs, are men who are worthy of high esteem. It is therefore becoming every man first of all to see that he is in position to vote, second, to vote honestly and conscientiously on all questions.

The board of registrars will post tomorrow a list of all qualified voters up to date, and the places of meetings for the purpose of casting any error there may be in said list.

Study the list carefully and see that your name and residence are right, also note the time and place of meetings as there are changes from previous years; those which in the past have been held at the Town hall will be held in Masonic building, East Weymouth.

Be sure you are registered and that there is no mistake in listing you and the best men on the ticket.

The Nickel Plate road is the line for the masses.

"The alarm of fire from box 29 rang, in last Friday night, proved to be occasioned by the attempt of an incendiary to burn the stable of Henry Thomas, father of the governor's private secretary, residing on Union street. While passing the house at about 9 p. m., Irving Loud noticed a blare from Mr. Thomas' stable, and immediately proceeded to investigate. On entering the spot, a man started up and dashed into his arms, but Mr. Loud was unable to hold him and he escaped. Mr. Loud described him as a man about 5 feet 6 inches of age, with a mustache and a slight beard, with whiskers on his face. The fire was extinguished by neighbors before any special damage was done. Officer Holbrook later awoke an East Weymouth man to assist him in the extinguishing of the fire, and was given an alibi and was allowed to depart.

"The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests," but Corbett and Fitzsimmons hath not where to punch each other's faces. Yet right in our own South Weymouth last Friday evening, two pugilists, one half hour apart from Rockwell and Brainerd, fought together to a draw in a barn and but for a dispute with the owner of the place would have had it to the finish with three-gloves gloves. Nearly one hundred sports from the various amateur associations of the Rockland fighter was the heavier by five pounds and was a favorite at odds of five to three. Both men were in prime condition. As they were about to take their places in the ring, the referee, on account of the use of his stool instead of $10 as originally agreed, was refused and a disgusted lot of sports went home.

The degree staff of Court Wessagusse, Order of Foresters will confer the degree of ornate orator to the candidates at their next meeting, Nov. 7, and a large attendance of members is expected.

"Pilgrim Circle, C. F. is to hold a coffee party at Union hall, Thursday evening.

GRASS CULTURE.
Experimental Details Reported by a Connecticut Farmer to Rural New Yorker.
My field contained 16 acres of poor, rocky, brush pasture and unplowed land. The soil was very light and the land overlaid with muck. The rest of the field was dry, gravelly loam. The bushes were removed, and then the bowlders. The whole was next thoroughly pulverized by plowing and harrowing. The manure used was four acres to orchard grass, timothy, red top and clover. This part stood seven years. All but the clover was well represented. The fourth year orchard grass only remained. Orchard grass is early, light weight, ripens in a day and makes poor hay.

The rest of 12 acres was seeded with timothy, red top and clover, and then finished up. The field is now in use, the other kinds of grass predominate. Timothy and red top mature well together, making very fine, soft and sweet hay. The red top is about four days later than the timothy, and the clover grows fast, and is cut up for sunlight. The red top increases the weight of hay one-third. Fourteen quarters each of timothy and red-cleamed red top should be sown on acre in August or September, upon clean land, and the grass will be up in time to be cut. Clean the land annually of all fowl stuff in October. After the grass is sown manure manures or other coarse substances should be used. They kill the grass, and the soil is then turned over to the clover. This is all that is needed. For five years I have tried to wean vacant spots in my grass-field without success. Bowen was left on two acres over winter and spotted badly. The following July it was cut and turned and sown in timothy. The young grass came up well. The next June the old grass had come back and killed all the young grass. Even the old crop was destroyed.

The grass is now in use, and will grow indefinitely, especially on swamp land, with the tools of 20 years ago. I would say, no. But with the best machines of today it is easy to subdue any soil, sowed and sown, to feed meat, manure and other materials in three months. With a perfect stand, if each crop is well fed with bone, potash and nitrate of soda of the right proportion, and at the right time, continuously, large semiaquatic crops can be obtained.

Moldy land is best for grass. All should be well drained and well graded. There is very little land so wet as to need underdraining. Use all the yard and coarse materials possible before seed, and then a good manure and fertilizer. Clean the land in October, and allow the grassfield to be pastured. Fertilize every crop. If the stand of grass becomes imperfect from any cause, destroy it and reseed. If you maintain a perfect stand of grass, it will last in the first crop and half as long more in the second each year are made easily. Greater perfection in cultivation can be obtained without the use of the plow. Thirty-two dollars will buy a complete thirty-two dollar set, which is to be used smooth, smooth and dead set for field for reseeding. With their use the toughest soil can be destroyed in two months.

IDEAS IN THE TRADE.

A writer in the New Tribune who prefers the rock drain, even though the rock is at hand, gives these directions for laying a tile drain:

Secure a good drain and lay it so that it lies flat on the ground. When the bottom of the ditch has been graded, lay boards of inferior quality about four inches wide in the bottom of the trench, and on these the tile may be rapidly laid so that the joints will come together. But, however good the joint, precautions should be taken to prevent the tiles from falling out. The use of tarp or rosin sized paper to be just the thing for this purpose, as it is easily applied, and from its nature quite long lasting, even in a wet soil. When it has finally rotted away, it will have a hard, smooth, firm surface. Where a joint is poor, or where the drain makes a slight turn, thus opening the joint to one side, a bit of tin or sheet lead can be bent down tightly over the joint, to the exclusion of all dirt.
